Integrated Working Across the Children's Workforce

Thursday 22nd April 2010 – Central London

Capita's 3rd National Integrated Working Across the Children's Workforce Conference builds on progress towards implementing effective joint working putting the child at the heart of the services they receive.

With pressure to make savings across the public sector, it is crucial that stakeholders make integrated working practices more efficient. Attend this timely event to discover how, through targeting resources and reducing unnecessary duplication, you can secure the best outcomes for the most vulnerable children and young people in your community. Key issues addressed include:

- Update on progress towards the CWDC's One Children's Workforce strategy
- Building common values and language
- Overcoming barriers to cultural change and workforce development
- Developing the Think Family approach to integrated working
- Best practice and challenges for locality working
- Supporting schools as the first line of defence in preventative working
- Strengthening information sharing practices

Delivered through informative plenary sessions and practical workshops, this highly interactive event provides an opportunity to assess progress to date, drive improvement and develop new approaches to current challenges facing practitioners. Network and troubleshoot with colleagues who share your commitment to improving outcomes of all children and families through better integrated practice.
